FIREBUG BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN AT WORK.

William J. Holtman Loses About $800 by Early Morning Blaze. Small Fires Elsewhere. New Academy-Wrothe, Watson and

William J. Holtman, who is, in the feed business at 2013 7th street northwest, has expressed the fear that an incendiary has been at work in the vicinity of his place of business during the past year or more, a number of fires of more or less serious proportions having occurred there during that period. About a year ago his place was burned and his loss was considerable. Last week it was feared the fire in Eisinger's lumber yard would reach his all points south every evening in the year place, and last night he came near losing his entire stock by fire. Steele of the eighth precinct saw flames leaping over the hay shed in the rear of the store of Mr. Holtman, and turned in an alarm. A few minutes later several companies of the fire department and the police reserves from the eighth precinct were at work on the blaze. Battalion Chief Kelleher discovered the danger to the grand stand in the ball park and to prevent the blaze from reaching that
